RTV-NOORD HOLLAND AND RADIO RIJNMOND CHOOSE VADIS

Munich, September 2003

At the end of 2003, RTV-Noord Holland will move to their new premises in Amsterdam. Recently, KLOTZ DIGITAL's exclusive distributor and system integrator for the Netherlands, Triple Audio, was awarded the contract to equip the new radio studios. RTV chose VADIS as their audio platform. In total VADIS will serve two main radio control rooms, five radio edit suites, five video edit suites, five newsreader studio, one pre-production studio, one newsroom position, one television control room and a large CTA (Central Technical Area).

In addition, Triple Audio have also secured a contract with the Dutch regional station Radio Rijnmond, who decided on VADIS for their new studios in Rotterdam. The order consists of the total replacement of one of the main control rooms and an on-air studio. The central technical area is designed to interface with the old analogue installations. "An important reason why Radio Rijnmond chose KLOTZ DIGITAL is that the VADIS system is incredibly configurable," says Martijn Reinalda, Triple Audio. "Regional stations in the Netherlands are known for their complex broadcast set-ups. As well as high demands on system functionality they also require extensive customization."
